Re: Ferrari Invoices & Refund

Dear [REDACTED]

I received your voice mail yesterday. I had been very busy with many things lately and was behind in my responsibilities. I am a single dad with three kids full time and have not been attending to my business as much as I should be. This incident has made it very clear to me. Paper work is one of those things that I do not excel at. I apologize for not handling this sooner. You have called me many times. I should have handled this on the first phone call. I actually should have given you the first receipt when you picked up your car. I have no excuses. During one of the phone calls, you asked me a question that to me seemed funny. You asked me if there was something that I wanted to talk to you about. I did not know what you meant. I said no. Then on the voicemail yesterday, you had mentioned that we only installed one amplifier and not two. I did charge you for a bass amplifier. $1,100 plus sales tax. After receiving your message, I called Dale, my installer who did the "lion's share" of your job and found out what happened. He had wired it up in "stereo/bridged mode" and felt that it was more than enough to make it sound great. He did not install the bass amp as I had asked. I didn't know this is what happened. Anyway, no excuses. I am the owner of this business and am ultimately responsible for everything that happens here. I have placed a refund on your charge card ending in 7460 in the amount of $1204.50. This is the amount of the amplifier and the sales taxes. I sincerely apologize for this error. I hope that you are happy with the quality of work that we did and the way your stereo sounds. Please feel free to contact me if you ever have any questions or problems with the Ferrari.

Sincerely,

Howard Blitz
